Four facts

Metro spoke with Steven Plate, One World Trade Center's construction director, to find out more about the logistics of building lower Manhattan's symbolic tower. Here's what he told us:

1 The white marble in the tower's lobby, white carrara, was sourced and mined from the same northern Italy mountain region as the marble used in the original World Trade Center, as well as Michelangelo's "David."

2 The tower is Leed Gold certified by the U.S. Green Building Council. Plate said the building doesn't just use energy, but converts used energy into electricity and feeds it back into the grid. Some 90 percent of the occupied spaces use natural light, and all storm water is recycled. "It's [the tower] saving the environment," Plate said.

3 The building knows who you are, and where you're going. Plate said the turnstile technology is so advanced, that when an employee swipes in, they don't have to push a button on the elevator to go to their floor. "The old days of pushing a button are over," Plate said.

4 Plate also said there was a "new story" during every day of construction at One World Trade Center, and that workers braved sub-zero and over 100-degree days to finish the work. REUTERS

Downtown. One World Trade Center opened up for tenants for first time on Monday.

For the first time in 13 years, New Yorkers are going to work again at the World Trade Center.

About 175 workers from Conde Nast started working at One World Trade Center on Monday morning. The media company has leased about 1.2 million square feet on 24 floors of the tower, and is moving their global headquarters downtown from Times Square.

Officials from the Port Authority of New York and New Jersey, Conde Nast, leasing company The Durst Organization and the 9/11 Memorial Museum held a brief press conference Monday as the tower opened to 175 employees.

Port Authority Executive Director Patrick Foye called One World Trade Center the "safest class A commercial building ...

Conde Nast employees downplayed reservations about the site's security.

"I can understand the fear," said Vijay Ramchattar, a finance analyst at Conde Nast. "But I don't think you look at this building with fear, you look at it with inspiration."

Some spoke of history going full circle.

Maryanne Casey, who works for a legal affiliate of Conde Nast, said moving into her new office evoked particularly personal memories. She once worked at the World Trade Center and her firefighter brother helped in the aftermath of the attacks.

"It's a great tribute to America to see this," she said.

in the world," and said numerous federal, state and local agencies, including the FBI and CBI consulted on the tower's security.

Noticeably absent were elected officials. Gov. Andrew Cuomo held a rally in the afternoon in Times Square with labor unions encouraging participation in Tuesday's election.

At 104 floors, the 1,776-foot tower is the highest building in the Western Hemisphere. The building's main entrance features a white marble lobby with a large, colorful, urban mural across from the security desk by Brooklyn-based artist José Parlá.

Construction on the $3.9 billion building began in 2006. The building is 60 percent leased, officials said, and other tenants include China Center New York LLC, a "business and cultural center to support Chinese firms doing business in New York," Servcorp, KiDS Creative, U.S. General Services Administration, Cushman & Wakefield, Westfield and BMB Group.

Legends Hospitality Group, another tenant, will operate the tower's 63rd floor observatory, which offers sweeping views of the city with floor-to-ceiling windows. The observatory will open in the spring.

Steven Plate, director of WTC construction with Port Authority, said the tower is "a miracle, truly history in the making."

Startup opens free ATMs

Brooklyn. FreeATM launches Tuesday with 25 ATMs in Brooklyn and Manhattan.

FreeATM, a startup in Brooklyn, thinks it has solved a problem that irks all New Yorkers — paying surcharges on taking cash out of ATMs.

"Regardless of whether you are rich or poor or where you live, no one likes to pay the ATM fee," said Clinton Townsend, CEO of FreeATM.

Starting today, FreeATM will roll out 25 free ATMs at locations in Brooklyn and Manhattan, ranging from the Knitting Factory in Williamsburg to Cafe Olympia in Midtown. Another 30 ATMs will be installed by the end of December.

There is no surcharge to use the ATMs, instead the fee is replaced by ads that are displayed on top of the ATMs and the machine's screen. Banks may charge a small fee on the back end, but FreeATM wants to work with banks to get rid of that as well.

"There was a period when I didn't have hot water in my apartment while I was getting this off the ground," Townsend said. "It took a while, but we've created demand in an area that impacts everyone."

FreeATM will display branded Metro content on their ATMs. METRO

Man stabbed to death on hotel stairs

The NYPD have arrested a man they say stabbed a man to death in a Bronx hotel on Sunday.

Eddie Davis, 53, has been arrested on charges of second-degree murder, police said Monday.

Officers responded to the Grand Concourse Hotel at 2327 Grand Concourse at 5:35 p.m. on Sunday. Richard Rivera, 45, was found in a stairwell with stab wounds to the chest.

Rivera, whose address is listed at the hotel, was pronounced dead shortly after that.

FDNY dispatch goes dark for two hours

The FDNY's dispatch system reportedly suffered a malfunction on Monday afternoon when it went down for two hours, according to a report by DNAinfo.

The system, which prioritizes 911 calls and assigns emergencies to ambulance teams, allegedly went dark at around 2:30 p.m., prompting dispatchers to write calls down on paper.

The system went back online at 4:10 p.m. Fire department spokesman Jim Long confirmed the outage to DNAinfo, admitting that "we haven't had outages for a while." METRO

New Yorkers head to the polls

New York Governor's race

Rob Astorino

Rob Astorino, a Republican from Westchester County, is challenging the incumbent governor. Astorino is serving his second term as county executive.

Astorino's key concerns are the economy, education and ethics. He believes New York under Cuomo is too highly taxed. Astorino plans to approve "clean and reliable natural gas exploration" and work to "bring control of education back to the local level."

Andrew Cuomo

Gov. Andrew Cuomo is seeking his second term in office. The governor received about two-thirds of the votes in the primary after a strong showing by liberal candidate Zephyr Teachout.

Cuomo, a Queens native, credits himself with balancing the state's budget for four years, giving middle class New Yorkers the lowest income tax rate since 1953, creating more than 440,000 jobs and reducing the unemployment rate to 6.7 percent.

New York State Attorney General

Eric Schneiderman

Attorney General Eric Schneiderman is seeking re-election. Schneiderman helped secure a $13 billion settlement from JP Morgan Chase for their role in the housing collapse, and helped buy the police departments bulletproof vests.

John Cahill

John Cahill, co-founded a business development group with former Gov. George Pataki.

He previously served as the governor's chief of staff from 2001 to 2006 and he also served as the Department of Environmental Conservation's commissioner.

New York State Comptroller

Robert Antonacci

Republican Robert Antonacci has served as Onondaga County's Comptroller for two terms and hopes to battle government inefficiency on the state level by getting the state's economy "back on the right track."

Thomas DiNapoli

Incumbent Democratic candidate Thomas DiNapoli is seeking a third term as Comptroller.

In his tenure, DiNapoli has proposed major budgetary reforms in order to cap state debt and establish emergency reserve funds

U.S. Congress 11th District

Domenic Recchia

Democrat Domenic Recchia is a former NYC Council Member from the 47th District, a position that he held for 11 years. For the past four years, Recchia has served as the New York City Council's Finance Chairman.

Michael Grimm

Republican Congressman Michael Grimm is seeking a third term as the representative for District 11. Grimm helped secure funding to support rebuilding efforts. Earlier this year he was hit with a 20-count federal indictment.

Amendments

Metro examines two of three amendments on Tuesday's ballot.

- If passed, Proposal 1 would create a 10-person commission that would be responsible for drawing state and congressional districts.
- Proposal 2, if passed, would require legislature bills to be sent out electronically, rather than a paper copy. According to a New York Times article, the legislature spends about $325,000 printing bills every two years.

Ferguson. AP: FAA no-fly zone during protests aimed at media

Local authorities requested a no-fly zone over the St. Louis suburb of Ferguson during street protests to keep news helicopters away, according to an Associated Press report, which cited audio recordings of federal aviation workers.

Police have been criticized for using rubber bullets, tear gas and dogs, and for pointing weapons at protesters during demonstrations that followed the shooting of unarmed black teenager Michael Brown by white Ferguson police officer Darren Wilson.

The Federal Aviation Administration imposed flight restrictions in 37 square miles of airspace surrounding the town for 12 days. Air traffic managers struggled to redefine the ban to let commercial flights operate at Lambert-St. Louis International Airport and to let police helicopters fly through the area but ban other traffic, the AP reported. REUTERS

Terms. Kaci Hickox can travel freely in public but must monitor her health closely.

The state of Maine and a nurse who had treated victims of the Ebola virus in West Africa reached a settlement deal on Monday, allowing her to travel freely in public but requiring her to monitor her health closely and report any symptoms.

The settlement, filed in nurse Kaci Hickox's hometown of Fort Kent, in Maine's far north, where she returned after being briefly quarantined in New Jersey, keeps in effect through Nov. 10 the terms of an order issued by a Maine judge on Friday.

Hickox returned to the United States last month after treating Ebola patients in Sierra Leone and was quarantined in a tent outside a hospital in New Jersey for four days despite not showing any symptoms.

She sharply criticized the way both New Jersey Gov. Chris Christie and Maine Gov. Paul LePage responded to her case. Christie and LePage have defended how they handled it. REUTERS

Biden tells CNN that Democrats will keep the Senate

Vice President Joe Biden predicted Democrats would retain control of the Senate in Tuesday's congressional elections but said that whatever happens, Republicans would have to work harder to make sure things get done in Washington.

In an interview with CNN, Biden said he did not agree with forecasts who say Republicans are poised to capture the six seats they need to take over the Senate. They are also expected to expand their majority in the House of Representatives.

"I don't agree with the oddsmakers," Biden said in the interview broadcast on Monday. "I predict we're going to keep the Senate."

Investigation. Rocket plane's tail activated prematurely in crash

Sheriff's deputies inspect the wreckage. / GETTY IMAGES

A team investigating the fatal test-flight crash of a Virgin Galactic passenger spaceship found that its rotating tail, designed to ease re-entry into the atmosphere, was activated prematurely, and said pilot error could not be ruled out.

The preliminary findings of the National Transportation Safety Board were disclosed late Sunday by its acting chairman, Christopher Hart, but he said it was too soon to know whether the untimely unlocking of the tail mechanism caused Friday's accident.

NTSB's Hart told a news conference on Sunday investigators had determined that the spacecraft's "feathering" tail system, designed to help slow its descent into the atmosphere from space, was supposed to have been released for deployment as the craft was traveling about 1.4 times the speed of sound.

Instead, the feather began rotating when the rocket-powered vehicle was traveling at Mach 1, the speed of sound.

Memorial to Apple founder dismantled

A memorial to Apple founder Steve Jobs has been dismantled in the Russian city of Saint Petersburg after the man who succeeded him at the company, Tim Cook, came out as gay.

The more than six-foot-high monument, in the shape of an iPhone, was erected outside a Saint Petersburg college in January 2013 by a Russian group of companies called ZEFS.

Citing the need to abide by a law combating "gay propaganda," ZEFS said in a statement on Monday that the memorial had been removed on Friday — the day after Apple CEO Cook had announced he was homosexual.

"In Russia, gay propaganda and other sexual perversions among minors are prohibited by law," ZEFS said. REUTERS

Auction. Original Apple computer could fetch up to $600,000

A fully operational Apple computer that company co-founder Steve Jobs sold out of his parents' garage in 1976 for $600 will hit the auction block in December, where it is expected to fetch more than half a million dollars, Christie's said on Monday.

The so-called Ricketts Apple-1 Personal Computer, named after its original owner Charles Ricketts and being sold on Dec. 11, is the only known surviving Apple-1 documented as having been sold directly by Jobs, then just 21, to an individual from the Los Altos, California, family home, Christie's said. REUTERS

*For the Apple Bank BOJUS Savings account, interest earned on daily balances of $2,500 or more at these tiers: $2,500-$24,999: .10% Annual Percentage Yield (APY), $25,000 and up: .75% APY. There is no interest paid on balances of $0-$2,499. APYs disclosed effective as of July 1, 2014. APYs may be changed at any time at the Bank's discretion. There is a minimum of $2,500 required to open the Apple Bank BONUS Savings account. $2,500 minimum daily balance is required to avoid $10 monthly maintenance fee. Fees may reduce earnings. Funds used to open this account cannot be from an existing Apple Bank account. Maximum deposit amount is $1,000,000 per household. *Special bonus feature: A .25% simple interest rate bonus will be paid on each anniversary date of account opening on the lowest balance for that year (anniversary date to anniversary date). No bonus is paid if the account balance is less than $2,500 on the anniversary date. Additional deposits during a given anniversary period do not affect the bonus interest payment. Deposits made to the account on any anniversary date will be used to calculate the lowest account balance for the next anniversary period. The bonus interest is calculated on the lowest balance on deposit from one anniversary date to the next anniversary date. Simple interest rate bonus is subject to change at any time after first anniversary date of account opening. Hypothetical example of how bonus works: Assume an account is opened on July 1, 2014 for $50,000. A $10,000 withdrawal is made on February 15, 2015. No other withdrawals are made prior to the July 1, 2015 anniversary date. The low balance is now $40,000, so $100 in bonus interest will be paid on July 1, 2015.

Why Aren't Doctors Telling About These Two Often

Two Advanced Medical Treatments Every Knee Arthritis Sufferer

by OsteoRelief Institute

OsteoRelief Institute is a medical clinic with locations in Mid-town NYC, Financial District NYC And North Jersey that has treated thousands of knee arthritis patients since 2009.

Here is what every knee arthritis sufferer should know about the best treatments and options available today. Including when and why you should consider each of these 2 treatment approaches to get maximum results.

If you suffer with knee arthritis pain, you have probably already tried many treatments ... especially countless pain medications.

Experienced doctors understand that, even though pain medications such as anti-inflammatory pain pills are part of the recommended early treatment plan for knee arthritis pain... they are rarely the answer.

In most cases they have minimal results (if any) and have a laundry list of potential side effects. Some being serious and even life threatening.

Are There Any Better Options?

Thankfully, advancements in science and technology come extremely fast. And now there are two very good options for knee arthritis to help relieve the pain.

Two options that a lot of knee arthritis sufferers have never heard of.

Before we get into the two treatments, please understand this...

OsteoRelief Institute is a REAL medical clinic that has treated thousands of knee arthritis sufferers. Patients travel from all over the country to be treated at one of their clinics because they want the best medical treatments available.

What you are about to discover are two REAL medical treatments. Not miracle cures you see on infomercials or on the internet.

Know this fact: There is no cure for arthritis. But there are these two treatments that have already helped thousands of knee arthritis sufferers - possibly just like you.

The first treatment is more common than the second. Even if you have heard of this treatment - or even tried it without good results - please read this. You will find out why it may not have worked for you and how you may be able to get much better results.

#1

Viscosupplementation

Viscosupplementation has gained quite a bit of popularity in recent years and it has gotten mixed results for a couple of reasons.

But before we get into that, here's what you need to know about viscosupplementation.

When you have arthritis, you suffer a decrease in the lubrication fluids in your knee.

In other words, your knee joints basically "dries up."

The lubricating fluid that decreases is called "synovial fluid."

Pharmaceutical companies (with the help of scientists) can now make natural synovial fluid gel-like compounds that, during viscosupplementation, treatments... doctors can precisely introduce directly into the knee and other joints.

This helps replace the lubricating fluid to the knee joint - allowing it to move more freely and smoothly and often decreasing or even eliminating the pain.

What Results Can Be Expected?

Like all medical treatments, the results vary and can not be predicted. But many knee arthritis sufferers get dramatic results. It is not uncommon for patients to either postpone knee replacement surgery for years... or even permanently cancel it.

But There Is A BIG Problem

The key is the treatment must be EXTREMELY PRECISE. If the injection is slightly off, the medication will not get into the knee joint and the treatment will not work.

That's why the experts at OsteoRelief Institute use advanced digital imaging so they can see the medicine going directly into the knee joint during the treatment.

Research shows that doctors performing joint injections without imaging miss the joint as much as 30% of the time.

If you have tried viscosupplementation without this special digital imaging without good results - this may be why.

That's why OsteoRelief Institute takes it even one step further. They do not just use one step process of advanced imaging during treatment - they use two in their "double confirmation" process. This is to ensure patients get the best possible results.

Another Important Factor

Viscosupplementation medications also come in several different brands and chemical make-ups. Just like all medications, some people respond better to some than others. While many doctors only use one brand, the experts at OsteoRelief Institute use several and great effort is taken to figure out what the best one for YOU is.

One last thing: The experts at OsteoRelief Institute have found that the earlier you start Viscosupplementation the better.

This is most likely because the longer you wait - the more joint destruction takes place.

That's why OsteoRelief is now seeing so many patients as young as 45.

Summary: If you have knee arthritis pain and have not tried Viscosupplementation, you should look into it as soon as possible.

If you have tried it without good results, you may still be able to get great results with the proper imaging and specific medication.

What Should You Do If Viscosupplementation Fails?

When conservative treatment, including visco supplementation fail... most knee arthritis sufferers believe their only option is total knee replacement surgery.

This is not true... and here is why

There is another treatment for serious knee arthritis pain most people (and even doctors) do not know about.

#2 Radiofrequency Neurotomy

This treatment is called, "Radiofrequency Neurotomy." RF for short

RF is a procedure that is based on the theory that blocking the nerve supply to the painful area may alleviate pain and restore function.

Several branches of nerves that surround the knee are known as "genicular nerves."

Radiofrequency waves are delivered to the genicular nerves under advanced imaging to "block" the nerves

Knee Arthritis Sufferers Successful Treatments?

Needs To Know - Before Or After Knee Replacement Surgery

Two procedures are performed. First, a test, diagnostic "G Block" procedure is done to determine if the procedure is going to decrease pain and improve function.

If this first "test" procedure is successful, Genicular Neurotomy (G - RF) is performed for long term relief.

Is It Safe?

Research has shown this procedure to be safe and effective.

One study published November 4, 2010 in the journal Pain found that RF treated subjects on average "achieved at least 50% knee pain relief at 1, 4 and 12 weeks, respectively. No patient reported a postprocedure adverse event during the follow-up period. RF neurotomy of genicular nerves leads to significant pain reduction and functional improvement in a subset of elderly chronic knee OA pain, and thus may be an effective treatment in such cases."

It should also be mentioned that, like all research, more studies should be done to get even more answers.

Who Should Try This Treatment?

RF should be considered after other treatments, such as anti-inflammatory pain medication and viscosupplementation do not offer good enough results.

RF can be utilized before resorting to total knee replacement. RF allows many patients to avoid knee replacement surgery.

RF has also been found effective AFTER knee replacement surgery when the patient still feels pain.

The pain after a failed knee replacement surgery can be debilitating and this procedure can be the only thing that helps and give you relief.

What To Do Next If You Are In Pain

Here is the "X" factor many do not consider that might be the difference between you getting the best possible treatment or not.

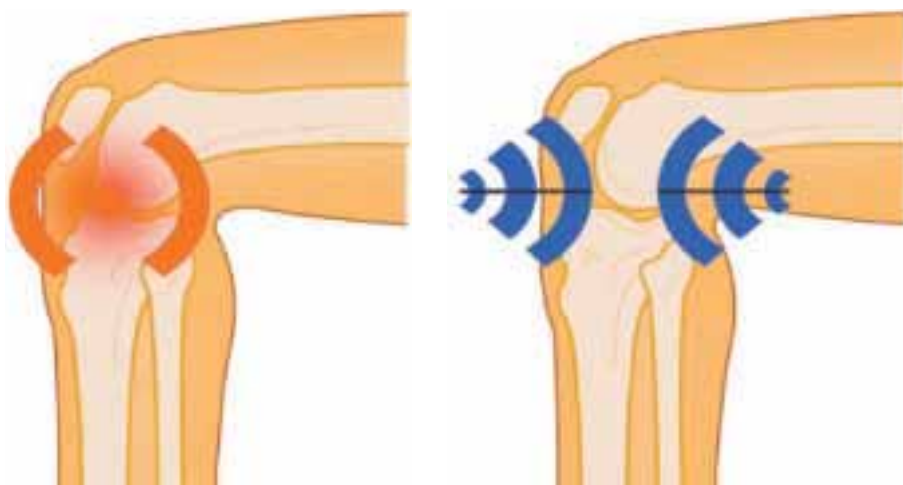

Many experts suggest choosing a medical clinic that offers all these treatments and has the proper, most advanced technology all under one roof.

This way, the doctors working on your case can give you a proper examination and advise the best possible treatment plan for your individual case.

Several experts work as a team to offer you the best treatment options at the appropriate time to maximize results. It is also very convenient to have all your doctors and treatments in one place. Traveling to different offices can be time consuming and even more expensive.

OsteoRelief Institute believes this "X" factor is

Advanced Treatment Uses Radio Frequencies To Relieve Knee Arthritis Pain

Science rescues knee arthritis sufferers?: Radio Frequency Waves are used to block the nerve supply to the painful area and may alleviate pain and restore function to many.

one of the reasons so many knee arthritis sufferers travel from all over the country to be treated at one of their advanced medical clinics.

Your Invitation

OsteoRelief Institute offers a limited number of complimentary knee arthritis treatment screenings every month. These screenings are a way for knee arthritis sufferers to get some of their questions answered and see if they are a candidate for one of the cutting-edge treatments offered at OsteoRelief Institute.

If you would like a complimentary screening, just call 800-227-KNEE(5633) and tell the scheduling expert who answers the phone, "I would like a complimentary knee arthritis screening."

The screenings fill up fast every month. If you do not call in time to get one this month, the expert will schedule you for next month.

This screening is no cost and no obligation.

Many of the treatments offered are covered by many insurance plans and Medicare.

Real-world lessons the NFL teaches us

I've been a huge New York Giants fan all my life and watch as many NFL games each week as my schedule permits. Here are three lessons the NFL teaches us:

No. 1: Our society loves violence and war

Despite our society's condemnation of war, crime and violence, what we do for entertainment says otherwise. Sure, the NFL is popular since it creates champions and our nation loves its sports, but the NFL is pretty much as close as you can get to simulating warfare. Although there are no weapons used, two opposing sides square off, intent on using their incredibly muscular bodies combined with detailed game plans to give it their all to defeat their opponent. And if they defeat enough opponents over the course of the season, they are champions of the Super Bowl.

No. 2: Hard work pays off

Despite the risk of serious injury that could happen at any point during their careers, football players spend their entire lives working their butts off for a chance to play in the NFL. Like any other sport, it's a tremendous honor for an athlete to make it all the way to play on a professional level in front of tens of thousands of fans. And it's inspirational for us fans to hear about their stories and challenges they've faced along the way.

No new Ebola cases or deaths in the U.S. mean we might actually be able to stop panicking about it (as much as possible while it's still ravaging Africa).

No. 3: We crave regularly scheduled content

At the end of a long week, my family, friends and I can't wait for the weekend during NFL season, a reassuring tradition we've come to know and love. Now Monday night and Thursday night football provide us with a mid-week fix.

It brings friends and families together and every season is capped by what's become the premier advertising event of the year, the Super Bowl.

Yes, the NFL can be brutal — but life can be, too. The NFL is exciting and there are twists and turns in every game and season. The NFL is popular because it resembles our lives, and while it's not perfect we should cherish it.

Tips to spruce up your college applications

College. Wording is everything when it comes to standing out from the crowd.

Applying to college is one of the first adult responsibilities that teenagers face, and that pressure might add an extra level of anxiety to an already stressful process.

"Students have an idea in their heads of what admissions officers are looking for," notes Mari McQuaid, a college admissions counselor at IvyWise, a consulting company that offers students college counseling and test prep. "[But] some students skimp on the details that can be advantageous to them."

We asked McQuaid to share some advice for the high school students currently working through the application process.

Show your personality

"It's harder to reject somebody if you feel that you kind of know them," notes McQuaid. Too often, students are overly formal in their essays and application answers. She advises students to show colleges a bit more about their interests. "The biggest mistake is not providing enough context," she adds. Is there a reason you've always wanted to be a doctor or have chosen an education major? Including those stories will make your application richer.

"Don't be disrespectful," warns McQuaid, "but if you can inject your sense of humor it does make a difference. ... You can kind of see the students who are overly concerned with how they come off."

Use descriptive language

When describing things like extracurriculars and part-time jobs, students tend to be very literal, notes McQuaid. "Spin it in the best way possible," she advises. For example, a student who volunteers at a tutoring center often will say something like 'I helped kids with their

Mentioning a mentor or teacher that impacted you helps humanize your applications. / WAVEBREAK MEDIA

math homework,' which, while true, isn't particularly descriptive. "Saying that you mentored them or coached them sounds more impressive."

Did you have a mentor who helped you get to where you are today? "Give credit to those people," says McQuaid. "It balances everything out in a way."

LAKSHMI GANDHI
@LakshmiGandhi
lakshmi.gandhi@metro.us

Do your homework

Know the school you are applying to

Most applications have a question that simply asks students why they are interested in attending that particular school. "It's very, very important that students do their research so that their essay is as strong as possible," says McQuaid. She recommends that applicants go to the university's website and look up the professors that they are likely to be taking classes with. Is there a particular class or major that intrigues you? Mentioning that — and explaining why — goes a long way.

Paul McGhee Undergraduate Division

The NYU School of Professional Studies Paul McGhee Undergraduate Division was created to provide adult students as well as those transferring from a community college or a four-year accredited university, with the opportunity to begin or to complete their undergraduate studies. McGhee offers all of the advantages and resources of an NYU education, combined with the convenience and the flexibility needed to fit your busy schedule through courses that are offered online and onsite.

McGhee offers a broad range of career-oriented bachelor's degree programs including the: B.A. in Humanities; B.A. in Social Sciences; B.A. in Applied General Studies; B.S. in Digital Communications and Media; B.S. in Healthcare Management; B.S. in Information Systems Management; B.S. in Leadership and Management Studies; and B.S. in Real Estate. A B.S. in Marketing Analytics will launch in Fall 2015.

McGhee also provides a supportive learning environment, seamless credit transfer, credit for prior learning, multiple financial aid and scholarship options, and flexible schedules that allow students to continue to earn while they learn, helping to defray the cost of tuition. Comprehensive academic and career counseling, programs taught by top professionals in their fields, and the option to study full-time and part-time make McGhee the choice for students who seek a rich educational experience from a world-renowned university. In addition, undergraduates benefit from one-on-one faculty advisement. A full-time faculty member is assigned to guide students in their chosen major or concentration and toward achieving their educational and professional goals.

A McGhee education prepares you for the challenges and the opportunities of a globalized world. McGhee students have the chance to study abroad through McGhee's own unique travel programs as well as those offered by NYU. Some travel programs are specifically tailored to meet the needs of working professionals who may not have the option of travelling for extended periods of time.

McGhee students can take advantage of career resources offered through their academic division, and also enjoy the benefit of career development/management services provided by the NYU Wasserman Center for Career Development at the NYU School of Professional Studies which posts job listings, connects students with alumni and mentors, coaches students on the most effective interviewing skills, and provides career guidance.

McGhee information sessions are held throughout the year. Please visit sps.nyu.edu/mcghee-events1g for further details and to register.

For more information about the NYU School of Professional Studies Paul McGhee Undergraduate Division, visit sps.nyu.edu/mcghee1g, e-mail mcgheeadmissions@nyu.edu, or call 212-998-7100.

A California native, Britton Burdick moved to New York after graduating high school. He attended college for a year before taking time off to decide what to do with his life. As he researched his options, he came across the NYU School of Professional Studies Paul McGhee Undergraduate Division. The rigorous course of study, flexible schedules, and hands-on learning experiences appealed to him. Enrolling in the B.A. in Social Sciences with a major in politics and a minor in philosophy, he has thrived in this unique learning environment. He is president of Phi Kappa Sigma at NYU, works as a communications assistant for the New York Republican State Committee, and served as vice president of public relations for the NYU Inter-Greek Council—all while earning his degree. Accomplished and driven, he is a perfect example of the bright, engaged, and inquisitive students that choose McGhee to complete their degree.

Talking Type at Touro GST

While Typography is an ancient craft, dating back to the Greeks and before, what we know as modern type design actually began with the invention of the printing press and movable type in the fifteenth century. Many of the typefaces used today were invented 200, 300 and even 400 years ago, yet because of the precision and clarity of their design, they retain their power to communicate powerfully today.

However, today's digital age has launched a new revolution in Typography, the likes of which we haven't seen since Gutenberg's day. With the aide of modern computer illustration tools, type design is a flourishing craft, spawning thousands of new typefaces each year. In this environment, how can today's digital designers make the right typographic choices to communicate effectively with their audiences across multiple platforms?

In a brief two hour workshop on Wednesday, December 3rd, 6:30pm – 8:30pm, the Touro Web and Multimedia Design Program will present an introductory exploration, entitled "Typography and the Web: Navigating Electronic Text Design in the 21st Century". Program Chair, Jesse Epstein, will introduce several principles of electronic typography, demonstrate several do's and don'ts of modern day type usage, discuss the interaction of text and imagery on the web and on mobile applications, and lead a hands on workshop in the most effective use of type on today's electronic platforms.

At BMCC you'll receive solid value, for a great education.

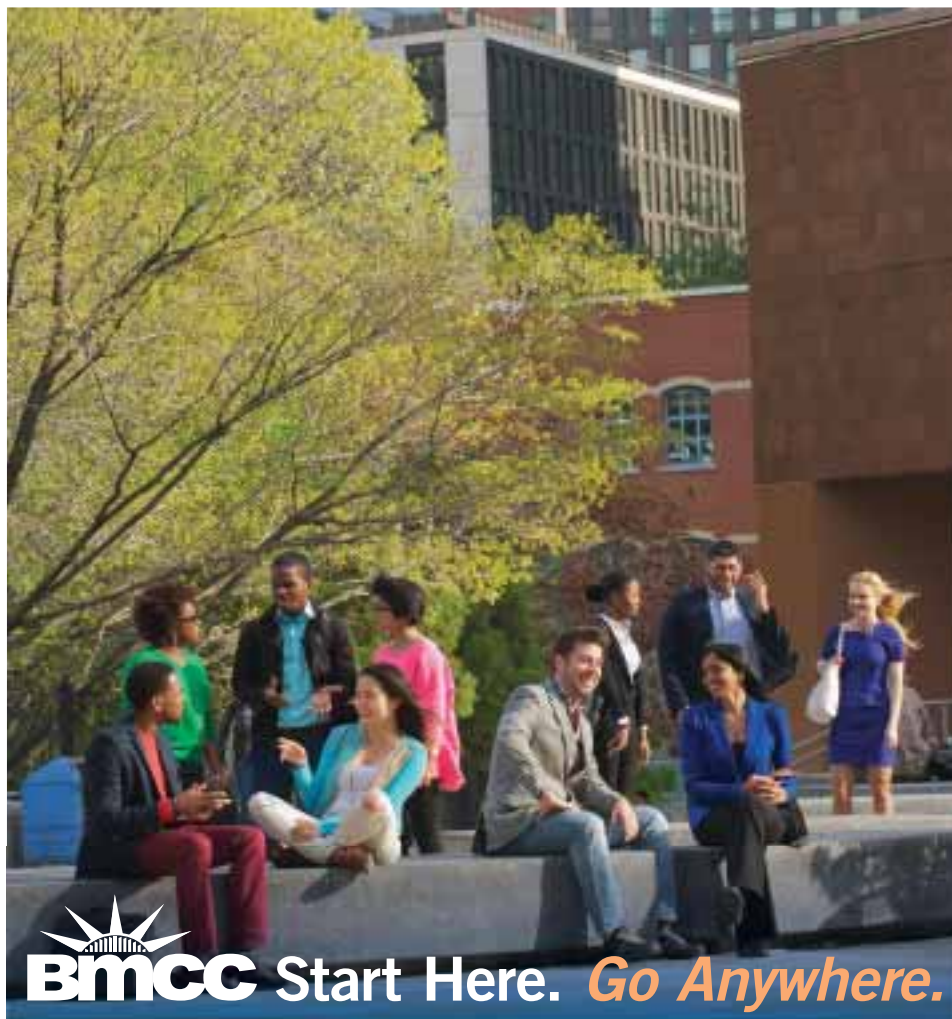

At Borough of Manhattan Community College (BMCC), we work hard to keep our students' dreams within their financial reach. As one of 23 colleges and universities comprising The City University of New York, we are committed to providing a high-quality education to a diverse urban population.

We want you to gain the most knowledge and access the most opportunities possible—while accruing the least debt.

We've got you covered.

As a degree-seeking BMCC student, close to 90% of BMCC students receive assistance from at least one federal, state or municipal financial aid program, and over half benefit from full tuition coverage.

Our graduates benefit from having completed a remarkably affordable college education—free from the debt that weighs on their peers at other colleges.

We want you to gain knowledge and degrees, not debt and uncertainty.

That affordability is assured by the CUNY Safety Net — low tuition, federal and state aid allowing six out of 10 full-time undergraduates to attend tuition-free, and federal tax credits easing the burden on the middle class.

Keep your options open.

BMCC students graduate with job-ready skills and respected academic credentials, well prepared to begin their careers or continue their higher education at a four-year college.

They choose from an impressive array of associate degree programs at BMCC.

These range from Liberal Arts to Media Arts. From Business Administration to Allied Health and Nursing. From Teacher Education, Human Services and English, to Computer Information Systems, Mathematics, Science and Accounting.

Go where ambition takes you.

At BMCC, we watch industry trends, and listen to what our students want. We've developed a host of new transfer programs — Community Health Education, Geospatial Technology, Forensic Accounting, Criminal Justice, Biotechnology, and more.

Every new program links to a four-year CUNY college or university. You'll also be eligible to enter colleges and universities beyond the CUNY system, or move right into your career.

Whether you see your future in a research lab, emergency room, classroom or corporate office, you can start at BMCC, graduate free from crushing debt, and go wherever your ambition takes you.

Free Training for the HSE diploma or a New Career

The Brooklyn Educational Opportunity Center is currently recruiting for February classes. The center offers High School Equivalency (HSE) preparation, English for Speakers of Other Languages (ESOL) and college preparation geared toward the CUNY admissions exam, as well as career programs in medical assisting, medical E-records, hospitality & operations management and Security Guard Training.

It's one of 10 Educational Opportunity Centers (EOCs) located throughout New York State, and funded by the State University of New York and administered by New York City College of Technology (CUNY). In addition to instruction, they also assist with job placement both during your training and after graduation, and can help you find an internship. (Tutoring is also available while in school.) Furthermore, they are an official TASC testing site, meaning that the official exam is administered on campus.

The campus is located in Downtown Brooklyn next to the Fulton Mall and the New York City subway system J Street-Metro Tech and Borough Hall Station. It's in a technology-enhanced building that features LCD projectors, 275 computers and digital imaging equipment.

Classes are forming now. Contact us at admissions@beoc.cuny.edu or 718-802-3330 for more information.

Selena Gomez's friends continue to worry

Selena Gomez's well-intentioned friends are expressing concerns about her attachment to on-again, off-again boyfriend Justin Bieber again. Gomez is supposedly dating Orlando Bloom, but her friends are worried her heart isn't in it. "She is absolutely not into Orlando because she is still obsessed with Justin and always will be," a source tells Radar Online. "Everyone is really sick of hearing the same old story. Nothing changes with them. She gets back with him, he lies, he gets caught, she gets upset and then tries to make him jealous. She needs to just let go."

How about a throwback Tuesday to Spice up your week?

In honor of BBC News declaring the Spice Girls' "Wannabe" the catchiest song of all time, let's revisit the video for the 1996 hit, filmed in a single take at London's former Midland Grand Hotel. The song beat out 1,000 other singles from the past 75 years, with study participants able to recognize it in an Heigl: Who, me, difficult?

Katherine Heigl has a new TV series debuting in a couple of weeks, which means she's doing lots of publicity — which in turn means she has to deal with a lot of inquiries about her "difficult" reputation — such as in a recent Facebook Q&A session when a fan asked Heigl about "rumors that you're very rude." Boy, this should be good. "Yeah, I've heard those, too," Heigl responded. "Honestly, I don't think I am. Nothing makes me more uncomfortable than confrontation or hurting someone's feelings, and I would never, ever actively do so on purpose. Of course, just like any human being I've made mistakes and unwittingly or carelessly spoken or acted, but I always try to make any wrong right. That doesn't mean I won't stand up for myself by drawing boundaries and asking to be treated kindly and respectfully, but I don't do that with any rude or unkind intentions, just with the same strength and honesty I think every one of us is entitled to." Dang it, if she's going to keep being so reasonable this isn't going to be any fun. Now what do I do? Mock her for ending a sentence with a preposition? Sheesh.

That's Lord Kanye to you, buddy

Kanye West wants to name his new $20 million Los Angeles home after the fictional home on "Downton Abbey," because of course he does. West, a noted master of subtlety and understatement, "wants the home to resemble 'Downton' in its grandeur and 'regalness,' and there will be a sign naming it Highclere Castle," a source tells the Sun.

Idris Elba lets it slip that Loki might not be so low-key

Could Idris Elba have been filming on the streets of NYC in late September for something "Avengers"-related?

"Avengers: Age of Ultron" could be an all-hands-on-deck affair, as Idris Elba let slip in a recent interview that he and "Thor" co-star Tom Hiddleston filmed a scene with Chris Hemsworth for the superhero sequel. "I'm in 'Avengers,'" Elba tells the Telegraph, "and I'm doing a scene with Chris Hemsworth and Tom Hiddleston and they're like, [whispers] 'Aren't you [meant to be Djing] in Ibiza?'"

InStyle editor lets it slip that Jessica Biel may be preggers

Social media can be a tricky thing when it comes to pregnancy. The last thing you want is a friend beating you to the punch in letting the world know you've got a bun in the oven, but that may be exactly what happened for Jessica Biel. Weeks of speculation that she and Justin Timberlake are expecting were seemingly confirmed recently when Biel's pal, InStyle editor-in-chief Ariel Foxman, posted an Instagram photo of him and Biel together with the caption, "Congrats @jessicabiels on your impending motherhood. Looking forward to the red carpet maternity style pix to come." The post was soon removed, but not before a lot of people noticed. Looks like someone will be uninvited to the baby shower.

Jason Schwartzman goes on the defense

JASON SCHWARTZMAN

Interview. The “Listen Up Philip” star says making his character nicer would have only made him worse.

In Alex Ross Perry’s “Listen Up Philip,” Jason Schwartzman plays a guy who many people may find unlikable — a young novelist who is rude and insulting to most of the other characters. But softening him, Schwartzman argues, would make him worse.

“Every time we’d experiment with making him more likable, we’d make him more unlikable, because he became passive-aggressive — which I feel is the worst,” Schwartzman says. “It became great that Philip was so direct and clear. You always knew where you stood with him. If the character was saying mean things only here and there, it’d be a different movie. But it’s so extreme. You just had to say ‘F— it, this is going to be in the red. Let’s just play it loud.’”

Not that Philip’s girlfriend (Elisabeth Moss) is all that better. “They’re not that different. Even though she’s sweeter, she too is self-consumed. She wouldn’t be an easy person to date,” he says. By the time they were on the set, they were arguing, almost in character. “I was sticking up for Philip, whose actions are sometimes just terrible. And I said, ‘Look, you don’t exactly make it easy.’ I only saw it from his point of view.”

Jason Schwartzman (with Jonathan Pryce) plays a jerkish novelist in “Listen Up Philip,” now in theaters and on iTunes. / TRIBECA FILM

Getting worse

The why of Philip

If Philip has any redeeming qualities, it’s that he wasn’t always this way. “Alex and I talked about him as a guy who was drinking a little bit, then drinking a little bit more, and then drinking a little bit more, and before you knew it, he was addicted,” reveals Schwartzman. “Maybe in the beginning he’s experimenting with being mean and cruel, and it slowly overtakes him. Before he realizes it, he’s lost touch.”

Perry would tell him the film was about “mishandling success.” “He was saying he had been at some film festivals and he would come back and he had met his heroes. He thought, what if a guy came back and was just like a d— to some of his friends? And slowly he became more and more detached from his world. What would that movie be?” Schwartzman says. “That’s what this is — someone who got some success from his first book, and his hero likes him and he’s written about. And he just severs all ties.”

Interview. The subject of 'Point and Shoot' on filming and fighting

The new documentary "Point and Shoot" tells a crazy story about a Baltimore guy, Matthew VanDyke, who on a whim went to Africa — only to wind up fighting in Libya's civil war. But the story, although wild, is serious. After he was done in Libya, VanDyke became entangled in the Syrian civil war, which he documented in the short film "Not Anymore: A Story of Revolution." And in December, he's going back to the Middle East to work on a project related to the fight against ISIS.

Becoming a war videographer wasn't the plan. "It's not something I set out to do. It sort of developed," VanDyke says. Then again, that's not unusual: "It's how everybody gets started in conflict filming and conflict reporting. Very few have training in journalism. They're the ones who have the guts to go over and do it. Whoever is willing to be there can do it. It's a real level playing field."

Visit Metro.us for an interview with the film's director, Marshall Curry.

"Not that everyone can do it well," he adds.

He also says there is talk from Hollywood. "But that's not something I'm focused on right now," he says, as he soon returns to the Middle East. "I'm taking everything I've learned over the years and applying it to the fight against ISIS."

He won't be filming or on the front lines. Instead, he'll be doing a variety of things, including advising.

VanDyke worries that making films doesn't have enough of an impact. "I'm someone who rarely believes the pen is mightier than the sword," he says. "I made the Syrian film so it would have a tangible effect on the ground. It did have a tangible effect, but not enough of one. I'm getting back into more direct action on the ground from now on. There are things I can do that are more effective for the cause."

Where your favorite writers like to hang

Social studies. It's no secret writers like to drink. This is where they do it.

Writing can be a lonely profession, so can you really blame authors for spending a little time at their favorite watering hole? Given writers' reputation for being boozehounds, they probably know the best bars to hang out at. "Come Here Often?" exposes 53 writers' favorite hangouts. Here, we highlight a few.

New York City

The writer: Madison Smartt Bell

The bar: Milano's (51 E. Houston St.)

The backstory: Bell reminisces about living in New York in the '70s, when a $20 bill was enough to get you through the week. He bar-hopped along Bowery, Bleecker and Houston streets, and stumbled into Milano's one cold, winter night. The friendly bartenders, muted black-and-white TV and occasional dog gave him a hideout that felt more like home than a bar filled with strangers.

Philadelphia

The writer: Josh Emmons
The bar: Dirty Franks (347 S. 13th St.)

The backstory: Dirty Franks is the ultimate dive bar, with floors so sticky you know they haven't

Actors are boozehounds, too

Drunken bar stories from Hollywood heavyweights

Imagine a time before the paparazzi caught every celebrity's move on camera. Stars were free to get drunk, hook up and act out without fear that it would be all over the Internet. So wouldn't you like to know what crazy antics they got into? A new book, "Of All the Gin Joints" is exposing those stories.

And better yet, cocktail recipes are included throughout the book. You'll devour both the wild stories and the recipes.

New York

Andrew W. K.

The bar: Gabby O'Hara's (123 W. 39th St.)

The backstory: Unlike a lot of New Yorkers, Andrew W.K. loves Midtown Manhattan. He's drawn to the chaos, where so many different people mingle, and he decided to make this part of the city his home. Amid this chaos, he established Gabby O'Hara's as his favorite neighborhood bar primarily because of the friendly bar staff. He became friends with the five core servers, who made it comfortable for him to wander in alone but leave feeling like he had the time of his life.

been washed in ages and somehow it hasn't been shut down by public health inspectors. So why does writer Josh Emmons love it so much? Well, it's cheap. And you can go in alone and start talking to fellow locals about the things that ail Philadelphia.

But most importantly, it's authentic. With craft breweries and expensive wine bars taking over, it's one place that still keeps it real — and won't kick you out if you're drunk and spill half a pitcher on the floor.

Taylor Swift dumps Spotify

Taylor and Spotify: Never ever getting back together? / GETTY IMAGES

Industry news. The app attempts to woo her back with breakup playlists.

Yesterday, Taylor Swift pulled all her music from the streaming service Spotify, and the company is not happy about it. Not only did Swift pull all her music from her new album, "1989," but every single song she's released ever.

Spotify released the following statement about the breakup: "We love Taylor Swift and our more than 40 million users love her even more — nearly 16 million of them have played her songs in the last 30 days, and she's on over 19 million playlists. We hope she'll change her mind and join us in building a new music economy that works for everyone. We believe fans should be able to listen to music wherever and whenever they want, and that artists have an absolute right to be paid for their work and protected from piracy. That's why we pay nearly 70 percent of our revenue back to the music community.

"PS — Taylor, we were both young when we first saw you, but now there's more than 40 million of us who want you to stay, stay, stay. It's a love story, baby, just say 'Yes.'"

But Spotify didn't stop there. It is attempting to woo her back with special playlists and using the hashtag #justsayyes to get her to change her mind. But surely Swift gets it. This isn't her first breakup.

Campaign. Romeo Beckham busts a move for Burberry

Move over, Cara Delevingne — there's a new British star stealing the spotlight at Burberry.

Apparently, soccer legend David Beckham isn't the only one with fancy footwork in the family. For Burberry's new holiday campaign, 12-year-old Romeo Beckham spins and sways like a young Usher or Justin Timberlake.

"Romeo has charm, style and great energy!" says Christopher Bailey, Burberry's chief creative and chief executive officer, who shot the video — his directorial debut.

The four-minute film, "From London with Love," follows a boy delivering a (gorgeously packaged) gift to a young couple, played by British models Hannah Dodds and Anders Hayward. They end up breaking into dance, as you do when you're in love. Over 50 dancers performed the routine choreographed by Lynne Page, best known

That is one seriously well-dressed 12-year-old. / DAN MEDHURST

Quoted

"Romeo [Beckham] has charm, style and great energy!"

Christopher Bailey, Burberry's chief creative and chief executive officer for her work in "Billy Elliot" — all exceptionally dressed in tailored suits, the brand's iconic trench coats and gorgeous gowns.

Along with the theatrics, the campaign kicks off Burberry's range of holiday gifts, which includes, for the first time, the option to monogram its heritage cashmere scarf.

And while the short is grand and romantic (seriously, it feels like the spirit of "Love Actually" trapped in a dreamy snow globe), it's really Beckham's high-voltage smile that will melt your heart. Watch out, Posh and Becks. METRO

Kicky art: 'Killer Heels'

Exhibit. The Brooklyn Museum highlights "Killer Heels."

A ubiquitous symbol of sex appeal, high heels physically and mentally empower wearers by elongating legs and improving postures all while creating a dramatic silhouette. "Killer Heels: The Art of the High-Heeled Shoe" at the Brooklyn Museum chronicles the heels' journey from Renaissance footwear for the royal elite to a sky-high accessory nearly universally loved.

The exhibition showcases over 160 heels within six categories. We picked four show-stoppers you must see to get the whole "pain for pleasure" appeal:

Masaya Kushino: 'Stairway to Heaven'

Kushino's haute-couture creations in the "Metamorphoses" section transform the heel into an artful spectacle through unconventional silhouettes.

Zaha Hadid: 'NOVA'

Architect Zaha Hadid teamed up with innovative design house United Nude to create the space-age "NOVA" shoes. Created from rippling curves of leather, vinyl and fiberglass, the silver wedge is more attune to the futuristic fortresses designed by Hadid than everyday shoes that sludge through the streets. With structural facades similar to the steel skeletons of New York City high-rises, Hadid's skyscraper heels are architecturally equipped with both aesthetic form and structural function.

His "Stairway to Heaven" boots combine cow leather with more uncommon decorations including a draped foxtail cascading at the back of the heel and crow feathers situated on each outer side of the shoe in order to recreate the fierce wingspan of a bird in full flight.

Leanie van der Vyver: 'Scary Beautiful'

Van der Vyver's "Scary Beautiful" video explores what garishly lies beyond beauty ideals. In the place of shoes are oversized clawed stilts preventing the young actress from striding with ease. From a sensual catwalk to an unnatural struggle, Vyver's video investigates the point where sexy-chic ends and the grotesque begins.

Christian Louboutin: 'Metropolis'

Louboutin's signature red soles evoke scandal and sexuality, a decadent pairing fit for the "Glamour and Fetish" section. The thigh-high red "Metropolis" boots in smooth calfskin leather are embellished with silver metallic studs, effectively blurring the lines between desire and domination.

3 Things to do in Old San Juan

With its cobblestone streets, ocean views and colorful buildings, the historic section of Puerto Rico's capital is among the most picturesque urban areas in the territorial US.

Explore a fortress

Built in the 1700s to protect the city from invaders, Castillo de San Cristobal — sister fort to the more famous El Morro — is the largest Spanish fort in the Americas. The National Park Service took it over from the army in the 1960s, and visitors can now explore the watch-towers.

Looking for a good selfie opportunity? Johnny Depp filmed a memorable scene in "Pirates of the Caribbean: On Stranger Tides" at San Cristobal's entrance.

Stroll off the beaten path

Located along the northern city wall of Old San Juan, La Perla is a historically unsafe area now undergoing a facelift and worth a visit — although you may feel more comfortable going with a tour guide. The neighborhood was initially created as a community for servants and former slaves, to keep them away from the city's center. But today La Perla, which has stunning ocean views, is becoming known for its music and arts scene, with concerts held regularly.

Most tourists head to La Perla's Santa Maria Magdalena de Pazzis Cemetery, the final resting place of many of the island's most historic figures.

Lodging

New hotel option

Bringing the whole family for a warm weather vacay? Hyatt House, Puerto Rico's first extended-stay hotel, just opened in San Juan. The hotel features roomy suites with full kitchens and living rooms.

Eat like a local

Put finding a tasty mofongo high on your must-eat list. The fried plantain dish is usually served with meat or fish. Order it at Cafe Puerto Rico (208 Calle O'Donnell).

Head into the Condado section of San Juan for something a little less traditional at Buda-tai, where you'll find a fusion of Puerto Rican and Asian flavors from "Iron Chef" contestant Roberto Trevino.

LAKSHMI GANDHI
@LakshmiGandhi
lakshmi.gandhi@metro.us

Where to drink

If you like pina coladas

The pina colada — the rum and coconut drink that traces its history to San Juan in the 1960s — has quite a contested history. The Barrachina (104 Calle Fortaleza) and the Caribe Hilton Hotel (1 San Geronimo St.) both claim their bartenders invented the sweet cocktail, and both have marble plaques attesting to that fact at their entrances.

Looking for a dive bar instead? The bartenders at El Batey, the oldest bar in San Juan, have plenty of tales to tell about life in Puerto Rico back in the day.

Cool book for kids

'The Princess In Black'

Finally, a book for kids wherein a princess saves herself. "The Princess in Black" tells the tale of Princess Magnolia, who is expected to be prim, proper and enjoy a life of scones and tea. But what her royal family doesn't know is that she has an alter ego as, you guessed it, The Princess in Black.

When Magnolia is The Princess in Black, she trades in her fluffy pink gown for a cool black cape.

She runs, climbs things and fights monsters. Kids will love meeting this new nontraditional princess who bucks the stereotype of princesses past.

The book is written by husband and wife writing duo Shannon and Dean Hale, who are also the masterminds behind "Rapunzel's Revenge" and "Calamity Jack." Shannon Dale says the idea for the book came to them when their daughter Maggie told them, "Pink is a girl color, and purple and yellow. But not black." They created this character to show her that black isn't just for male superheroes like Batman — girls can rock it, too. EMILY LAURENCE

Bruce Springsteen releases book based on 'Outlaw Pete' song

Out today. Is this book for kids or adults? You be the judge.

There's no denying Bruce Springsteen's "Outlaw Pete" is a great song. But is a story about a bank robber trying to outrun his sins really for kids? We called the guy whose idea it was to turn the song into a picture book, illustrator Frank Caruso, for some clarification.

Is this book for kids or adults? It's kind of hard to tell.

It's an illustrated book based on Bruce's song "Outlaw Pete." Some people might call it a picture book for adults, but because of Bruce's influences for writing the song, it has a children's book feel. I like to think kids can understand the story. If you look at fairy tales, nursery rhymes and kids' movies, they deal with [similar] issues.

BRUUUUUUUUUCE
DANNY CLINCH

Bruce Springsteen and Frank Caruso teamed up to create a book based on the song "Outlaw Pete." / PROVIDED

Kids' stories can be pretty dark.

Think about "Bambi" or "The Lion King." In "Finding Nemo," the barracuda eats his mom.

Was it difficult to figure out how to illustrate a story with gunfights, for example, since you knew people of all ages would be reading it?

Not really — because besides being a great song and a great story, Bruce created a great character. It's tied to the folklore of our country, and those are things that happened during that time. It's not about the violence. It's about the character and trying to know yourself and coming to terms with who you are. That's what I was trying to illustrate; I was trying to illustrate the character. All of the other things going on are just part of the story.

How did you come to work together? Did you know each other before the collaboration?

No, although I was a big fan. Growing up in New Jersey, it's part of your fabric. I was working on a book for Andrew Vachss called "Heart Transplant" and

Wild, wild West

Did you grow up with Westerns?

My dad had Westerns on 24 hours a day. The biggest Super Bowl or World Series could have been going on and my dad would be watching "True Grit."

FRANK CARUSO

was listening to Bruce's album "Working on a Dream" while I worked. The first time I heard "Outlaw Pete," I thought, this is illustrated; Bruce illustrated it through his music and his words. So I started sketching around and [later] showed my sketches to my friend Dave Marsh, the host of E-Street Radio. When Bruce got back from touring, we connected and it went from there.

♐ Sagittarius | Nov. 22-Dec. 21. Check out the real estate market. A move will be a pick-me-up. A career change is possible if you are willing to adjust.

♑ Capricorn | Dec. 22-Jan. 20. You will have trouble making up your mind. Rather than taking action in the spur of the moment, be patient.

♓ Pisces | Feb. 19-March 20. Don't enter into financial deals with fast-talking salespeople. Consider their motives before you part with your cash or commit.

♈ Aries | March 21-April 20. Don't take a loved one for granted. Spend time nurturing and appreciating your most important relationships.

♉ Taurus | April 21-May 21. Consider talking to a life coach. A career change will take place if you head in a direction that makes better use of your skills.

♊ Gemini | May 22-June 20. Look for a new challenge. Someone who shares your interests will motivate you to forge ahead with a dream.

♋ Cancer | June 21-July 22. Think before you act. Becoming involved with someone who has different values and beliefs may seem exciting and exotic, but serious ramifications are likely.

♌ Leo | July 23-Aug. 22. Open up the lines of communication with someone you are having a problem with. Don't make assumptions.

♍ Virgo | Aug. 23-Sept. 22. You deserve a special treat. A new look will boost your morale. If you stay within your budget, it will add to your delight.

♎ Libra | Sept. 23-Oct. 22. Your home will experience an unexpected transformation. Focus on being flexible. Share your thoughts, but do so with diplomacy.

Vote today

We are at a critical point in the history of this great nation. It is imperative that you cast your vote today. My wife and I chose to vote early. I urge all voters, regardless of your party affiliation, to vote in this year's elections, thereby participating in shaping our nation's future. In these worrisome times, your vote will make a huge difference in how America is perceived by free world nations who look to us for leadership.

HERBERT W. STARK, VIA EMAIL

The great travesty of our age

I continue to read letters that say the police should crack down on lawless cyclists — yet not one of these people ever says the police should crack down on lawless pedestrians. Could it be that these two-faced hypocrites are themselves lawless pedestrians? We hate bad cyclists, too, just as we hate bad pedestrians. Explain WHY the police should only go after lawbreaking minorities (lawless cyclists), but NOT go after the lawbreaking majority (lawless pedestrians)? And if the police go after lawless cyclists and not lawless pedestrians, doesn't this just prove the cliché that cops go after minorities and are too scared to go after the lawless majority?

Yankees offer closer $15.3M

The Yankees have made a $15.3 million qualifying offer to closer David Robertson for 2015. Robertson, 29, can turn down the offer and become a free agent. And while he could likely make more in total on the open market, he would be hard pressed to make that much annually. Rafael Soriano was the highest-paid reliever in baseball at $14 million in 2014. He has a week to decide.

Giants never close in blowout defeat

NFL. New York didn't even look competitive in an ugly performance against the Colts coming off the bye.

The Giants dropped their third straight game, as the Colts grinded them into the turf for a 40-24 loss Monday night.

Big Blue was coming off the bye week, following two straight defeats to divisional rivals, and one would've thought they'd come out with a renewed sense of urgency. But it was the Colts (6-3) who meticulously dismantled the Giants (3-5).

Metro breaks down what went wrong in the defeat.

1 Dropping the ball

Giants head coach Tom Coughlin preached all week his team needed to "play above the Xs and Os," but his squad literally dropped opportunities to change the game's momentum. Coughlin committed the first guffaw when his slow trigger to challenge a call led to the Colts' first touchdown. Andrew Luck hit tight end Coby Fleener for a 32-yard touchdown as the duo caught the Giants napping while their sideline deliberated whether to challenge the previous play that was ruled a completion, but looked otherwise. Safety Antrel Rolle dropped a sure-fire interception on the Colts' final drive of the first half. The misplay led to a 48-yard field goal.

2 Garbage man

Eli Manning and his offense paled in comparison to Indianapolis' efficiency, as the quarterback was off-target on most of his throws — when he wasn't getting harried. Manning finished 27-of-52 for 359 yards, but much of it in garbage time with the Giants down 30 points late.

3 Clean pocket

It was an all-around porous effort for the Giants, as the defense was just as anemic. Luck was only sacked once and had lots of time to make the necessary throws downfield. Big Blue rarely even hit or knocked down the elusive Luck, as he connected with nine different receivers and threw for 354 yards and four touchdowns.

Familiar face

Sanchez takes control in Philadelphia

While the Jets scramble to find a competent quarterback — any will do — an old face is taking over as starter just south on I-95.

Mark Sanchez was named starter for the Eagles indefinitely with Nick Foles out with a cracked collarbone.

The Jets traded up to select Sanchez No. 5 overall in the 2009 NFL Draft and he led them to consecutive AFC Championship appearances before a year of struggles and an injury in 2013 led to his release.

Now, he's on a first-place team in the NFC East.

"I feel great about Mark," said Eagles head coach Chip Kelly. "We felt great about him all along. ... I always said we needed two quarterbacks and [we] had a chance to get him in here. I thought he's done a great job in our system."

The Eagles and Jets are currently engaged in a game of musical chairs at quarterback. Sanchez was dumped in favor of Geno Smith, who has been replaced by Michael Vick. Vick was Foles' backup last season in Philadelphia.

"We don't look at it as a backup. We look at it as a starter," Kelly said. "We're looking for people to be starters because that better be your mindset going into it, because you are literally a play away from being a starter, and I think that's how Mark approached it." MARK OSBORNE

Foot work

Vick concerned with health, not future

Michael Vick is on only a one-year deal with the Jets, but it's not his future with the team he was being asked about Monday.

Coming off the Jets' eighth straight loss, the veteran starter was asked if he worries about the future of head coach Rex Ryan and the coaching staff if the team keeps losing.

"I think right now we have to live in the moment," Vick said. "We can't think about the future because it's something that we can't control. You'll go

Michael Vick had a quarterback rating of 105.7 in the loss to the Chiefs. / GETTY IMAGES crazy trying to think about what's going to happen in the future. You focus on the present, you try to live in the moment and you go from there."

In the present, Vick is dealing with staying healthy enough to get on the field Sunday. Vick left Sunday's game in the second half after his head bounced off the turf, but he returned after passing the concussion protocol.

"It's a whole protocol that you have to go through and I went through it," he said. "I did everything that I had to do [Sunday]. I did some [Sunday] night."

Vick is also dealing with a foot injury, which Ryan said was more concerning than the head injury. The injury has bugged him for a few weeks and was reaggravated against the Chiefs.

"I'm just going to continue to get treatment all week and just keep doing the same things I did last week and just try not to get it stepped on," Vick said. METRO

Prokhorov to Kidd: 'Don't let the door hit you'

NBA. The Nets owner clearly wasn't worried about what he lost before last night's home opener.

Mikhail Prokhorov has owned the Nets since May 2010, but his limited public comments have created the aura — and criticism — of an absentee owner.

He memorably spoke on Dec. 28, 2012, after making the decision to fire head coach Avery Johnson, with the Russian billionaire saying he had to cut a heliskiing trip short to attend to the state of the team.

Prokhorov delivered his first press conference since Jan. 12 on Monday. Much has changed in the interim, including the departures of head coach Jason Kidd and Paul Pierce.

"You know, I think there is a nice proverb in English: Don't let the door hit you where the good lord split you," Prokhorov said. "So, like I think each side did what we thought was the best, and I like what we have now. I think our structure is optimal. We have a very strong, experienced coach and very strong GM, Billy King. So, for the time being, we're [adjusting]."

The owner hasn't backed off on his championship talk, either.

"I think everything is OK," Prokhorov said. "I stay committed to the championship. I think if the stars align, we can do this. I think last year we had a couple of really bad injuries. We were not very lucky, but I think we were not the only team which suffered from the injury problem. What is good for us, I think, remains our organization that attracts great talent and great fans."

The running joke with the 49-year-old is that he will get married in 2015 if the Nets don't win the franchise's first NBA title. In his tenure, the Nets have lost Game 7 to the Bulls at home in the first round and fell in five games in the Eastern Conference semifinals to the Heat last season.

"Between me and you, I haven't sent for the new wife," he joked. "And by the way, we have lost George Clooney. I think it's enough for this year."

Even with championship aspirations, there have been rumors Prokhorov is exploring at selling the team. Reports of a proposal for a partnership with Guggenheim Baseball Partners, the owner of the MLB's Dodgers, surfaced before the season. The team is reportedly worth $1.7 billion dollars, aided by the rebranding in Brooklyn, after Prokhorov spent $223 million in cash for the initial purchase.

"As soon as we moved to New York, it was a great lift for us, from a business point of view," Prokhorov said. "But of course you have to invest to be like the top teams of the NBA."

Shumpert not focused on extension

If Iman Shumpert was frustrated with the Knicks not offering him an extension before the Oct. 31 deadline he isn't showing it.

"I can't think about that," Shumpert told reporters after Sunday night's win over Charlotte. "We make the playoffs and I do what I'm supposed to do, things will happen."

Shumpert will be a restricted free agent next summer, though the team could come to an extension once the season is over.

Fellow 2011 first-round picks Kyrie Irving, Klay Thompson, Kemba Walker and Alec Burks are among the players who signed deals before the deadline. METRO

Quoted

"It's not a big deal just because I personally compensated this money from my pocket, and that's why I will keep the structure for the time being."

Mikhail Prokhorov, Nets majority owner, on reports he lost $144 million on the team last season

Are you tired of waking up several times each night to use the bathroom?

Do you feel like you can't get a good night's sleep?

If you have answered yes to any of these questions you may qualify to participate in a clinical trial for an investigation medication for a condition called NOCTURIA. We are currently recruiting men and women, age 50 years and older, for a research study to evaluate the effectiveness of an investigational nasal spray to reduce the number of times you get up each night to urinate.

If you wake two or more times each night to urinate and have experienced these symptoms regularly for six months or more, you may qualify for this study.

Qualified participants may receive confidential study related medical care, including physical exam, lab tests, and study medication, at no cost. Additional compensation for travel and other expenses may also be provided.

FATIGUE • LOW SEX DRIVE • LOSS OF MUSCLE • DEPRESSED

Not feeling like your usual self?

It may be low testosterone - and you have options.

Feeling tired? Low sex drive? Losing muscle tone? Maybe even a bit depressed?

It may be more than just age. It could be low testosterone. Although millions of men suffer from low testosterone, very few know they even have it-or that they can do something about it. Right now, doctors at Manhattan Medical Research are conducting a research study of an investigational medication for low testosterone. Qualified participants will receive the study medication and all study-related care at no cost. Participants may also be compensated for their time.

Trouble navigating your depression?

If you are taking medication for depression but feel it is not as effective as it could be, you may be interested in ARGO - a clinical research study that will look at whether using an investigational medication in addition to an approved antidepressant could help alleviate the symptoms faced by people with depression.

We are looking for people:

- aged between 18 and 75 with major depressive disorder
- who have not responded well to at least one antidepressant treatment in their current depressive episode

Study-related medications and procedures will be provided at no cost.

No Credit? No Cash? No problem!

*This is an estimated weekly payment, rounded to the nearest dollar for the merchandise shown if you were to acquire ownership after making 52 weekly payments. The actual weekly payment may vary depending on your spending limit and how much you spend; the actual weekly payment will be in your lease. Ownership is optional and you may purchase or return the merchandise at any time after the initial payment has been paid, the minimum lease period has been met and provided proper notice is given to FlexShopper per your lease. See your lease for more information regarding ownership and minimum term.
